

How to Get Answers to Your Questions by Texting Google

Doing a search in Google when you're on a computer is pretty common. But texting - not so much!

I text Google a lot! I'm traveling to my destination and wondering what the weather will be like so I text Google. To do it, simply send a text message to 466453 (G-O-O-G-L-E). Here's some examples: (send the following commands)

- Definition preparedness (returns the definition of preparedness)
- Weather 54401 (returns the weather conditions for the zip code 54401)
- Score Packers (returns the score for the Packers game)
- Movies 54401 (sends back a list of movies playing, you choose the movie and it returns movie times)
- Translate Happy Birthday in Spanish (gives you the word Happy Birthday in Spanish, "¡feliz cumpleaños!")

You can even find a business - type business name, city and state. For example:

RMM Solutions Wausau WI (sends back - RMM Solutions, 210 McClellan Street, Ste 100, Wausau WI 54403, 715-848-3292)

There are a lot of other things that you can text to Google. For more information, visit <http://www.google.com/mobile/products/sms.html>.

Please note standard text messaging rates apply.
